Question 4A (10 marks)

Read the text below.

Elephants are the largest mammals that live on land. Elephants are found in warm places like Africa and parts of Asia. There are three species of elephants: the African savanna elephant, the African forest elephant and the Asian elephant. Elephants can grow up to 4 metres tall and weigh up to 6800 kilograms. They can live up to 70 years.

Elephants are herbivores. Their diet includes grass, leaves and fruits. They use their long trunks to pick up food, drink water and spray themselves to stay cool.

Elephants are known to be intelligent and to have good memory. They can remember other elephants and places, even after many years.

Today, elephants are an endangered species. Humans destroy their habitats and hunt them for ivory. Climate change also makes it hard for them to find food and water. However, there are laws and sanctuaries to protect elephants from becoming extinct.

Question 4B (15 marks)

Read the text below.

Ted was a fisherman's helper. One day, while fishing, Ted was surprised to see a marvellous fish in his net. Suddenly, the fish spoke to him, "I got caught in your net while playing with my friends. My parents must be looking for me and must be anxious. Please let me go back." Ted agreed with the fish and quickly threw it back into the water.

When the fisherman saw this, he got very angry. "I hired you to catch fish, not to throw them back into the water! Go away!" he yelled. Ted walked away sadly. He did not know how he would manage without his job. On his way home, he saw his neighbour, Mr Florence, coming towards him with a cow. "Why are you so sad?" Mr Florence asked. Ted told him his story. "I'm going to do you a favour. I'll let you keep this cow for three years. She'll give you a lot of milk. However, I have some conditions. After three years, I will come and ask you some questions. If you answer them correctly, the cow will be yours. If you do not, I'll take back the cow," Mr Florence said.

"It is better to take the cow now than to keep my family hungry," thought Ted. He went home with the cow, relieved. Indeed, the cow gave a lot of milk. Ted got a lot of money by selling the milk and his family lived comfortably. However, when he went to bed every night, Ted kept worrying about the questions Mr Florence would ask.

Three years later, a young man named Chris came to see Ted. Ted was so nice to Chris that the latter decided to stay at his place for some days. They talked till late that evening. Ted narrated his story about the conditions imposed by Mr Florence and how he was afraid he would lose the cow. Chris reassured Ted and told him that he would answer the questions for him.

A few days later, Mr Florence knocked at Ted's door and said, "The time has come for you to answer my questions! If you cannot answer them, I will take my cow back." Chris came forward and said, "I'll answer them for Ted." The first question was: "Which object has a face and hands but cannot move?" Chris quickly replied: "Clock." Chris answered all the questions one after the other until Mr Florence did not know what other question to ask.

Finally, Mr Florence left without taking the cow. Ted was overjoyed. "What can I do to thank you?" he asked Chris. "You don't need to thank me. Do you remember that little talking fish which you threw back into the water? I am that fish. A witch had turned me into a fish and I got caught into your net. If you had not thrown me back, I would not have been here today. I'll be grateful to you forever."
