One Saturday morning, Nico and Tony, two good friends decided to go fishing at a nearby pond. So, they got their fishing lines and bait ready. They also packed utensils and ingredients as they wanted to have fresh fish for lunch on that day.

Once they arrived at the pond, they sat far from each other to be able to fish from different areas. Within a few minutes, Nico caught a big and beautiful fish. He was overjoyed. He placed the fish in a bucket. Now that he had caught a fish for lunch, he continued fishing to bring some back home for dinner later.

On the other side, Tony's bucket was empty. Nico was worried that Tony might have to stay till late in the afternoon to catch some fish. So, he offered to help Tony. However, the latter politely refused to take his help. Tony said, "Don't worry, Nico! I will soon catch the kind of fish I need. I just need to be patient." Some minutes later, Tony managed to catch a large fish. To Nico's surprise, Tony threw the large fish back into the pond. Nico remained silent as he watched Tony catch many big fish and throw them back into the pond.

After some time, Nico got annoyed and could not bear it anymore. He asked Tony, "Why are you throwing the fish back into the water? The fish were big and beautiful!"

Tony calmly replied, "I know the fish were big. Unluckily, I did not bring a big pan to cook the big fish. So, I am looking for a smaller fish to fit my cooking pan."

Nico laughed at Tony's reply. However, being a good friend, Nico advised him, "You just have to cut the big fish into smaller pieces to fit them into your pan."
